What Were the Fund's Costs for the Last Year?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Fund Name	Cost of a $10,000 Investment	Cost Paid as a Percentage of a $10,000 Investment
Sprott Junior Copper Miners ETF	$127	0.75%

How Did the Fund Perform Last Year?

The Sprott Junior Copper Miners ETF returned 137.40% for the 12 months ended December 31, 2025. For this period, the three largest contributors to performance were Northern Dynasty Minerals, Ltd., Taseko Mines Ltd. and Imperial Metals Corp. The three largest performance detractors were Entree Resources, Ltd., Copper 360, Ltd. and Hillgrove Resources, Ltd.

Junior copper miners benefited from a strong 2025 backdrop as copper prices pushed into record territory. On the supply side, major disruptions pushed the market into deficit sooner than expected, while treatment charges collapsed, signaling scarcity amid years of underinvestment and declining ore grades. On the demand side, copper shifted toward strategic end uses, with electricity infrastructure, AI and data centers, and defense spending driving demand upwards. On the policy front, geopolitical uncertainty and tariffs contributed to a rising critical materials bid and inventory fragmentation, further exacerbating the supply deficit. Junior copper miners benefited from this environment, due to their operating leverage to the copper spot price and the rising likelihood that these projects move from optionality toward construction as policy support and permitting momentum improve confidence.
